STREET CAR STRUCK BY BIG FOUR ENGINE

Conductor and Motorman Have Narrow Escape at E. Jackson St. Crossing.

ELKHART, Ind., Nov. 28.—Motorman Jake Sloat and Conductor F. G. Beemiller, the crew of the E. Jackson street car, had a narrow escape from serious injury at 8:15 o'clock Thursday morning when the car was struck by a Big Four switch engine at the E. Jackson st. crossing. The car was badly damaged.

According to Motorman Sloat the street car was coming west and as no signal was given of the approaching engine he started to make the crossing. When he noted the impending danger he entered his efforts on the hand brakes but the rails were slippery and the car slid directly in the path of the engine which was south bound. Engineer Charles Shugars applied the emergency brakes and brought the engine to a quick stop but not before it had swung the front end of the car to the south. The vestibule was smashed in and the mechanism damaged. The car was one of the old type. No passengers were aboard.

Although Mr. Sloat stuck to his post he escaped uninjured. He is one of the traction company's oldest employees. Both Messrs. Sloat and Beemiller state that although gates have been installed at the crossing for many years and a watchman is employed the gates are seldom operated and the watchman is rarely on duty.

MORDECAI BROWN MAY LEAD CINCINNATI REDS

Herrmann Refuses to Remark on Report—Tinker is Wanted by Frank Chance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—That Mordecai Brown, the three fingered pitcher, has been selected to manage the Cincinnati National league team, succeeding Joe Tinker, is the statement declared to be based on good authority, printed here. Brown is a member of the team, which got him from Louisville last year after he had been released to that club from the Chicago Nationals, for whom he starred in the box for many seasons. He twirled many good games for Tinker last season. His friends assure that a level-headed, intelligent baseball man who knows the game thoroughly he is worthy of a trial in Tinker's place.

Pres. Frank Farrell of the New York American is anxious to buy Tinker's release from Pres. Herrmann of the Reds and telegraphed the Cincinnati president on the subject. The Highlanders' president declared he would outbid any other manager for Tinker's services.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 28.—Pres. August Herrmann and other officials of the Cincinnati Baseball club refused to confirm or deny the report that Mordecai Brown had been selected as the manager of the club for next year.

FINDS FIVE CAN LIVE ON $500 YEAR IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The least a family of five can live on in this city is $500 a year, and "that does not provide for luxuries," Cyrus L. Sulzberger, president of the National Conference of Jewish Charities, told members of the State Commission for Widowed Mothers today, speaking in favor of state aid for widows with children. "I do not think," he added, "the public view contemplates luxuries for dependents or the elevation of the standards of living."

Mrs. V. O. Sinkovitch, head of the Greenwich Settlement house; Rabbi Stephen Wise, Morris D. Waldman of the United Hebrew Charities and others favored governmental aid to supplement the relief work now being carried on by private organizations.

EDUARD WALDMANN. Arrangements have been completed whereby Eduard Waldmann, the eminent English tragedian, will appear at Oliver theater Monday, Dec. 1, in Stevenson's fascinating play, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde". Mr. Waldmann is a Shakespearean actor of note, having played all the large cities of Germany and England. In New York, Philadelphia and Boston where he appeared, his interpretation of the difficult dual role has been considered one of the strongest impersonations of that complex role ever seen in this country. Mr. Waldmann will be supported by his own English company.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

One of the rare musical treats of the season was afforded by the concert of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra in the auditorium of the high school Thursday evening. The disconcerting number of vacant seats in the hall provided a sad commentary on South Bend's boasted musical taste. Dr. Ernst Kunwald's symphony orchestra is a splendid organization. In the first place it is large and South Bend had the opportunity of hearing the entire 85 pieces instead of half that number, which is more often the case in one night cities. The instrumentation together with the size enabled effects of wonderful brilliancy and variety.

Not the least pleasure of the concert was afforded by Dr. Kunwald's conducting. All the parts of his orchestra he controls with the slightest tension of that bond of sympathy between players and conductor which it is evident exists in the Cincinnati orchestra. A sudden broad sweep of his arm brings the grand crash of a climax, his palm uplifted, suffices to hush the mighty volume of one of the most delicate pianissimos. Kunwald is a man of moods, though far from the spectacular sort.

In the program not the slightest concession was made to the so-called popular taste. Every number was a classic, and the generous applause proved that appreciation was not lacking in the audience. The entire first part was Wagnerian. In the music to death of Siegfried from "Götterdämmerung," the varied effects of the orchestra were revealed most strikingly. The piece is majestically solemn and its presentation was vivid and rich in tonal effects. The Bacchanale, naturally an entirely different style of composition, brought out splendidly the beautiful pianissimo, which is one of the features of the orchestra. Emil Heerman scored a tremendous success as soloist. His presentation of the Bach concerto for violin, proving his technical as well as his interpretive art, was so appreciated that the audience would not let him escape without an encore, the only one of the evening. His second number was characterized by a beautifully singing tone.

The Beethoven Symphony No. 5, which closed the program is one of the most melodious as well as colorful in orchestra. An appealing theme about which the first movement, Allegro Con Brio, is woven, was admirably emphasized even in the dash and fire of the composition. The second and third movements are also rich in melodious effects.

The program was as follows: Part I. Overture—"Meistersinger" Wagner. Music to Death of Siegfried, from "Götterdämmerung," Wagner. Bacchanale (Venusburg), Wagner. Part II. Concerto for violin—Emil Heerman Bach. Symphony No. 5—Allegro Con Brio, Andante Con Moto, Allegro; Beethoven.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

A good all around bill of clean vaudeville entertained Orpheum visitors yesterday and the theater was filled to capacity at all four performances, an extra matinee being given on account of the holiday.

Rice and Cady are good old time German comedians with the extended pouch for the short one and the paint brush whiskers for the taller. They do the customary mixed dialogue and pretended abuse. Their restaurant talk is new and their parodies funny.

Savoys' bull terriers create the most excitement and probably the most amusement of any act on the bill. They perform in lively acrobatic stunts and, in the football finish, can scarcely be restrained on the right side of the footlights.

Arthur Rigby, a popular blackface comedian, is witty and has a line of nonsensical patter that amuses. He works apparently without effort and talks his songs more than he sings them. He was well received.

A playlet called "A Lesson in Reform" was presented by Florence Modena and an assistant. It deals with a woman's exaggerated ideas about reforming the lower classes and her husband's method of teaching her the foolishness of her methods. The Grace Ayer trio, two girls and a midget, do fancy roller skating and dancing on rollers. They are graceful, the little fellow is interesting and some of the tricks are difficult.

"BIG HEARTED JIM." A picture in two parts dealing with the great northwest. The best of it, so far as the story goes, in a chase or manhunt over the rocks and ravines of a wild country. The photography is clear, and the exploits of the two men, bad man and K. V. W. mounted police officer, are thrilling enough to furnish good entertainment. In the opening scenes, which are set before the fireplace in a spacious country house, and have a story teller and a group of children around him, are charming. The lighting of them is perfect. The rays seem to come from the fire on the hearth and to wrap themselves around the group in a warm poetic glow; yet the detail of the group is perfectly photographed. The story is clear, although in character it is like other life in the wintry forest. It will be liked and is a commendable offering.

"THE QUAKER GIRL." "The Quaker Girl"—she of the lifting song and the graceful dance, is coming to the Oliver on Saturday matinee and night to tell in a burst of song, the tale of her trials and triumphs, her piques and relings. It is a story of love and romance seductively charming, embellished with cooing melody and contagious comedy. There is only one company presenting the piece this season which is headed by Victor Morley and includes Harry Short, Bernice McCabe, Dixie Girard, William Blaisdell, Mille Corlay, Connie Mack, Carol Parson, Murray Stephen, Phil J. Moore, Harry Sinclair and Adelaide Bolger. The chorus and ballet are features of the performance.

OVER HALF OF ALL SICKNESS CAUSED BY WEAKENED, CLOGGED-UP KIDNEYS

Hundreds Suffer From Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it—Backache, Bladder Disorders and Rheumatism is Result.

It is a well recognized fact among physicians today that a greater part of all sickness can be avoided by keeping the kidneys working properly. This is even more important than for the bowels to move regularly. The kidneys and bladder are the filters and sewers of the body, and they must filter the blood and keep it pure. When they fail to do this properly, you suffer with pains in the back or sides; have bladder or urinary disorders, lumbago, rheumatism, dizziness, nervousness, or feel tired and worn out. If you have any such symptoms, don't neglect yourself another day. Secure an original package of Croxone which costs but a trifle, take three doses a day for a few days, and you will be surprised how entirely different you will feel.

This new effective preparation soaks right in and cleans out the clogged up, inactive kidneys, so that they can filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid and keep the blood pure. Croxone is truly a remarkable remedy for the prompt relief of kidney and bladder disorders. You will find it entirely different from anything you have ever used. It is so quick-acting and effectively prepared, that it is practically impossible to take it without results. Every druggist recommends it, and is authorized to return the purchase price, if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.
